THE DEEP DRILLING FORMAT

This format is based on Imaginal Education principles. Its focus is on Spatial understanding instead of Aerial understanding. Linear reading is deductive, the process of adding words, lines, paragraphs together to make the idea whole. Spatial reading is an inductive process in which the broad scope of the material is intuited, and we are allowed to enter into a dialogue with the author. To do this effectively, note the following ways to access this chart Spatially.

First: Read from the top box down. Note that each succeeding level supports and describes the level above .

Second: Observe the three boxes at the bottom. The lowest box (A) are the Lesson Number for each week. The little box (A) are the various Biblical pericope (or sub-titles). For most of you this material may be useless to you, as most bible versions have differing sub-titles. The little box (A) are the scripture references associated with each lesson.

Third: The material designated A is my reflections on this chapter. Various pericope were grouped together and given a descriptive name. Each succeeding level of the reflective part of the chart groups more and more material together. The large box at the top summarizes and names the metaphor that carries the theme of this Gospel. This is important work as it is our own dialogue with the author.

Now, you try your own grouping and naming. It is an interesting and exciting method of grasping the significance of any material we read. It is our first way of experiencing the material. Also, it develops our intuitional skills.
